DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 6-8, 17 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kerr, Sr. 6,966,168 in view Meehleder 5,040,360.

Kerr, Sr. discloses a trimmer attachment for a mower deck including:

- a device for raising and lowering the trimmer by the operator (36)
- a line trimmer (Fig. 20) with a bottom side that is capable of feeding line upon tapping the line trimmer bottom side upon a surface (Col. 4, lines 52-60)

The trimmer attachment can be moved through a 90 degree arc. However, Kerr, Sr. the device for raising and lowering the trimmer is operated manual rather than by a servo motor connected to a switch.

Meehleder discloses a trimmer attached to a mower deck with a device for raising and lowering the trimmer. Unlike Skovhøj, Meehleder discloses making the device for raising and lowering the trimmer have a motor (37) connected to control panel (Column 3, line 51-56). The control panel has a line feed switch (37b) and a servo raise lower switch (37d). The servo raise lower switch is a toggle switch where the lever slides. The servomotor is electric.

Art Unit: 3671

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the device for raising and lowering the trimmer of Kerr, Sr. automatic as in Meehleder, in order to decrease operator fatigue.

3. Claims 8, 17 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kerr, Sr. in view of Meehleder as applied to the claims above, and further in view of Skovhoj, 4,663,920.

The combination discloses the claim device described above except for providing a joystick switch connected to the servo to actuate the servo through angular changes in order to change the angle of the trimmer cut.

Unlike the combination, Skovhoj discloses a joystick switch (234) for changing the angle of the trimmer cut.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the combination with a joystick switch for actuating the servo through angular changes as taught in Skovhoj, in order to increase flexibility of use of the trimmer.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. Applicant's claims are now rejected as above. Kerr Sr. now discloses a bump type trimmer connected to a mower deck.
